MONONGAHELA AND WASHINGTON GET RELIEF WORK UNDER WAY

Committees Appointed in Two Communities For Relief in Belgium

GATHERING SACKS OF FLOUR

Charleroi Little Behind in Getting Start Though Charleroi Choral Club is Working Hard in Preparation for Benefit Concert.

Monongahela is starting enthusiastically its relief in Belgium movement as also is Washington. Committees have been appointed at both places and are campaigning now to raise the sacks of flour promised from the two places. Locally practically the only movement so far made in raising a fund for the Belgian relief work is that instituted by the Charleroi Choral club, which proposes to give a concert on June 22, as a benefit.

In Monongahea the city has been divided into districts. A team of ten men has been named for each district, with each team having a captain. Mayor L. C. Isler is the general chairman of all the work.

In Washington a similar plan has been followed, ward captains having been appointed and the canvassing of the town started. Monday in Pittsburg "bread day" was observed and all this week will be "bread week" in Western Pennsylvania towns.

The Charleroi Choral Club concert will be worked up in good shape for June 22 and it is anticipated there will be a large crowd on hand at the high school auditorium to hear the affair. Prof. Daniel is directing rehearsals and a meeting of the club will be held tonight.

HOMELESS FAMILIES AROUND CHARLEROI

Charleroi has hundreds of homeless families who can be made happy and secure homes on next Saturday. Simply living in a rented house is not the home you owe your wife nor is it the kind of home she expected and you had promised her when you got married: neither is it the home due her and your children. A rented house is only a delusion, a deception, a sinkhole for your money. It is not a home. The occupants always have that natural hearthunger for the satisfaction of living under their own roof.

Next Saturday, commencing at 10 a. m. and 1:30 p. m 100 beautiful home-sites, in Wilson Heights, (W. W. Piper farm) North Charleroi, will be sold at auction to the highest bidders on easy terms of payment. These large lots and small farms range in size from 40 x100 feet to full acres and larger. You can get several of tehse fine home-sites with your rent money. Take the trolley to Bridge 2 stop. Don't miss this opportunity. It will never come again. 286-t1

CLEVELAND MAN IS OVERCOME BY THE HEAT IN MONESSEN

James Miller is Removed to the Monessen-Charleroi Hospital in a Critical Condition.

James Miller of Cleveland, Ohio, is in a serious condition in the Monessen-Charleroi hospital, as the result of a heat stroke. About 4:30 o'clock Monday afternoon Miller toppled over while walking along Donner avenue, Monessen. It was apparent that the heat alone overcame the man for he was in robust health. For two hours Monessen doctors worked with the man, but they could do nothing for him and he was removed to the hospital in a semi-conscious state. Miller is still in a critical condition.

DIVORCE GRIND IS STARTED IN COUNTY

Several Who Find Matrimony an Unpleasant Thing Seek Separation---Various Causes Assigned And Troubles Aired

Several of those who found matrimony an unpleasant thing and wished to extricate themselves from its unpleasant tenacles were arraigned before Judge Irwin at Washington Monday. It was found that Dan Cupid had many unfortunate patrons in the country's realms.

Augustus Carlson of Cokeburg, who recently permitted his wife to move to Bentleyville while he himself did not accompany, was in trouble. The wife sued her husband for non-support with the result the husband was demanded to remit $8 per week for the support of his wife and their three children.

Mr. and Mrs. N. H. Umbel of Bentleyville were out of concord with one another. The husband had a disposition that was non-supportive and the wife's assertion of the same landed him in the Washington county calaboose. There he remained until Monday when he was brought before Judge Irwin and charged to pay his wife $3 per week for her and their children's support. It appeared Mrs. Umbel has decided that Mr. Umbel was not the man that a husband, especially of her's should be. Consequently she has started divorce action while the husband blandly looks on.

John Fink of Monongahela was firmly requested by the judge to pay his wife $5 a week for her support and their children's support. He has, however been permitted to have an occasional look at his children.

Charles B. Casebolt of Charleroi charges his wife, Myria Casebolt with desertion. They were married ten years ago at Cumberland, Md. After marriage they lived at Connellsville and later moved to Pittsburg. The libellant declares that his wife left him while they lived in Pittsburg.

Solomon Jones, also of Charleroi, has started divorce proceedings against his wife, Francis Wells Jones. They were married fifteen years ago in Bedford county, Virginia. The husband averred that his wife deserted him in 1912.

STEEL AND COKE WORK IS NOW ON INCREASE

Coke Region Operating at 65 per Cent of Entire Output Capacity—Decision in Favor of U. S. Steel Company Brings Prosperity.

The business suppression throughout the entire Western Pennsylvania section is being alleviated to some extent. Many industries that have been working heretofore only a few days a week are now operating seven days a week and are working three eight hour shifts a day. A Pennsylvania steel concern that formerly worked but a small portion of the time is now working night and day, Sunday included, turning out shells for the allies in Europe.

Clay Lynch, manager of the H. C. Frick Coal company at Greensburg, has announced that commencing this week 300 additional coke ovens will be operated indefinitely in the Fayette county coke regions. The firing of these additional ovens brought the percentage of the entire Frick working force up to 65 per cent of their maximum capacity

The announcement that two large steel blast furnaces will presently be opened up in Pittsburg has necessitated that 480 coke ovens of the H. C. Frick Coal company at Connellsville will be opened up to supply the fuel consumed by the two furnaces.

The Carnegie Steel company's manager at Connellsville announces that they have orders on hand that insure the full operation of 90 per cent of their plant, and that work is guaranteed far in the future.

For some time there have been many trade press dissertions on the shortage of Connellsville coke in the event of a sudden booming in the steel industry. The bulk of the Frick furnace fuels output is shipped to the Pittsburg manufacturing sections and other manufacturing sections in the Pittsburg vicinity.

With their ovens operating at 65 per cent of their maximum capacity the Frick ovens can meet 90 per cent of the demands of the steel corporation. In general throughout the state and the country it seems that the bud of a general boom is in evidence, especially in the steel and coal centers.

MANY TO ATTEND CANAL HEARING

Governor Brumbaugh Anticipates Large Crowd From Western Pennsylvania

T. P. SLOAN TO BE PRESENT

Governor Brumbaugh's anticipations are that between 50 and 100 citizens of Western Pennsylvania and Eastern Ohio will be present at Harrisburg Wednesday to discuss the possibilities of the ship canal bill now before him. Monday the list persons invited to attend this discussion on legislation was made public. Representatives of almost every line of life are included in the roll of names. People will be summoned especially from those parts of Western Pennsylvania where they have gone on record as strongly desiring to make Pittsburg a lake port by means of a canal to Lake Erie.

Representatives from the parts of Eastern Ohio directly affected were invited to attend the hearing. Because of the scarcity of opponents Gov. Brumbaugh has instructed all invited guests to bring along anyone who might want to express themselves in regard to the movement.

Tom P. Sloan of Charleroi has been invited to attend the hearing which will be held in the executive offices at 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon with the governor presiding Senator George T Oliver is the chief opponent of the bill. From the present outlook the oponents of the bill will be greatly outnumbered by those in favor of its passage.

Warm Weather of Monday Drives Large Number to Charleroi's Popular Resort

THEN THE MERCURY DROPPED

Cooler Atmosphere Today Preventing Bathers From Taking Advantage of Opportunities Offered at Riverside Institution.

Charleroi's miniature Atlantic City got its season's start in splendid shape Monday. Then, as some comedian would remark, the weather was chilled.

Monday was a day of mid-summer weather. That is, the sun shed rays that were blazing hot, and developed within one thoughts of vacation and seaside attractions. Hence the Charleroi beach was a popular place.

Water was cool Monday, not having been sufficiently warmed this spring to make swimming in it the most delightful thing in the world, but hardy persons were undaunted. In they went and splashed and dove and swam to their hearts content.

A larger number watched than swam on Monday, however and from early afternoon until late in the evening, crowds lined the shores at the beach. The attractiveness of the place was remarked. Today there promises to be little bathing, for not only is the water chilly, but the air is very cool.

One of the popular places at the beach Monday was that of the refreshment stand, conveniently located. The neat, clean bath houses attracted marked attention.

A careful estimate was made by those in charge as to the number of persons who visited at the beach Monday afternoon and at one time it was estimated that there were 250 there with the most on shore simply watching the antics of the swimmers.

PURSUIT OF HAPPINESS

"It seems as if took like sumthin' would have to be done to discourage the pursuit of happiness," is the sage remark of Abe Martin, the Ameriky Brown, Indiana humorist. There is more philosophy and sound sense than appear in that remark.

Over Sunday automobile accidents were so numerous that ordinary newspaper space was sufficient for treating them. Over Monday swimming accidents were in order, and boating accidents were reported from various localities. These were the most common, though the motorcycle held its own and death was its product. All accidents resulted from pursuit of happiness, and most all from excessive indulgence in that pursuit.

It seems to get under the wool of any driver of a gasoline propelled vehicle for any other driver of any other kind of vehicle to try to pass them. Then death approaches and like lightning somebody is hurled into eternity. That's the usual method.

To vary the monotony of such occurrences a trifle and to enlarge upon the dangerous aspects to an appreciable extent, a few reckless spirits attempt conclusions with a lightning express and succeed only in reaching the fatal crossing at that precise moment when they will be hit the hardest.

However a man needn't drive an automobile like the wind to pursue happiness into the grave, for there are more ways of ending life than one could count in a day. All of them are always easily at hand.

As Abe Martin remarks something is very much needed to check the pursuit of happiness. We have a few speed laws, but it is altogether too easy to break them, and we have a few other laws, but they don't answer. It is up to somebody to invent something more effective.

GAINING WEIGHT VS. LOSING

If the majority of people were as much distressed about the sudden reduction in their weight as they are over an addition of a few pounds avordupois, the human race would be far better off, says the state health commissioner.

Vanity unfortunately does not lead the average individual to look upon slenderness of figure as objectionable. If it did thousands of cases of tuberculosis might be discovered in their incipiency.

One of the early symptoms of tuberculosis is a loss of weight. Any decided decrease should be watched with suspicion. It often means that the general bodily functions are not as that they should be. It is certain under any circumstances to demonstrate that one's physical resistance is being lowered and this in itself opens the way to unusual susceptibility to disease.

If this loss in weight is accompanied by failure of the appetite, night sweats, or a persistent cough or cold a physician should be consulted and nourishing food, plenty of rest, long hours of sleep in the fresh air and such other measures as he may advise should be restored to in the effort to build up the body.

An excess of weight, particularly when it means an increase of girth, is a danger sign. However, while people will wear rubber jackets, diet and resort to violent exercise to reduce, it is vastly that is responsible in the majority of cases. They will neglect their lives to worship ever decreasing figures and the figure is merely the falling barometer, determining storm, that the physician is looking for jeopardy.

PICKED UP IN PASSING

I was walking past a house where the children were playing when a funeral procession passed the house. The man was comfortably seated in a chair that was tilted towards the street, his feet on the sill of an open window, whittling lazily.

"I reckon ol' man Williams has got a bouth he biggest funeral ever had in yher, hasn't he, Caroline?"

"A purty good-sized one, Bud," his wife replied.

"I surely would like to see it," said Bud. "What a pity I ain't facin' that way!"

Mrs. Finegan kept a boarding house and one day young Johnson came to her with several complaints. She listened in silence for a few moments, but as the young man waxed eloquent she lost her patience.

"Don't I know every one of the tricks of your trade?" said Johnson, with considerable heat. "Do you think I have lived in boarding houses fifteen years for nothing?"

"Well," replied Mrs. Finegan, icily, "I shouldn't, se at all surprised."

Lime Treatment in Tuberculosis

In the May 27, 1912, issue of the Journal of the American Medical Association appeared this statement concerning calcium (lime) medication in the treatment of pulmonary tuberculosis (consumption):

"Under the systematic, continued and persistent regime of calcium assimilation, Van Gieson has seen a number of his patients improve, undergo an exudation or partial consolidation in the lung, which then resolving would appear to contribute to the walling off and closing of the lesions. Hand in hand with this course of events, the sputum clears up of tubercle bacilli, which finally disappear, and the patients are discharged with healed pulmonary tuberculosis."

Ethical medical journals seldom speak so positively about a remedial agent, yet this testimony coincides with that from many consumptives who have secured like results through the use of Eckman's Alterative.

Since calcium is a constituent of this remedy for pulmonary tuberculosis and allied throat and bronchial affections, its healing power may in some measure be attributed to the manner in which this element is so combined with other ingredients as to be easily assimilated by the average person and it does not irritate the stomach.

Eckman's Alterative contains no opiates, narcotics or habit-forming drugs, so it is safe to try. If your druggist is out of it, ask him to order or send direct to Eckman Laboratory, Philadelphia.

New Old Slang.

Modern slang isn't necessarily new. It has been pointed out lately that "good night" in its modern slang sense, appears in Shakespeare in "Henry IV," part 1: Worcester, speaking of the danger of the conspiracy (act 1, scene 3), refers to the peril of one who should attempt to o'erwalk "a current roaring loud, on the unsteadfast footing of a spear." Hotspur continues, "If he fall in, good night!"

In connection with the Washington anniversary it may be recorded that as a young man Washington wrote: "I heard the bullets whistle, and, believe me, there is something charming in the sound." That "believe me" is almost modern enough for a moving picture show.

Uncle Sam's Name.

Like many other popular customs, the general acceptance of the name "Uncle Sam" is traceable to a small incident. The occurrence is just 100 years old, and is associated with Troy, N. Y., where, after the war of 1812, Elbert Anderson, an army contractor, purchased a quantity of provisions. One of the official provision inspectors was Samuel Wilson, who, because of his popularity, was generally referred to as "Uncle Sam Wilson."

The boxes of provisions were stamped E. A. U. S., the first two being the initials of Elbert Anderson and the last two the usual abbreviation for United States. When one of the men engaged in the work of transferring the boxes was asked one day what the letters stood for, he replied, jokingly, that they stood for Elbert Anderson and Uncle Sam, meaning Wilson.

The remark "caught on," and after being communicated from point to point in army circles spread over the country.

Porto Rico Sugar Industry.

The important part played by the sugar industry in the material welfare of Porto Rico is shown by the figures of exports. Out of a total valuation of exports amounting to $43,000,000 during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1914, sugar alone constituted over $20,000,000. This was the lowest sum realized for sugar exports in five years. Under normal conditions sugar constitutes two-thirds the total value of all exports.

ANOTHER GREENE COUNTY OFFICIAL IS ARRESTED

County Detective A. W. Cole Arrested on a Charge of Open Lewdness—Declares That it is all a Frame-Up

The many arrests of Greene county officials lately has terminated in their arrester being arrested. County Commisioners Libson Scott and T. J. Ross have charged County Detective A. W. Cole with open lewdness and he has been placed under arrest. The warrant was served by Basil Mapel. Cole waived hearing and will appear in court some time this week.

Cole declares that the whole thing is a frame-up because he made information last week in the case of the three county commissioners and the three contractors on the recently published conspiracy charge. People who witnessed the alleged actions of Cole will be present when the case is held in court as witnesses.

BENTLEYVILLE PLANNING FOR CELEBRATION OF JULY 4TH

Many Committees to be Appointed Wednesday—Monday, July 5, to be Day of Celebration.

Bentleyville has plans under way for an extensive celebration of the Fourth of July. Monday night many of the towns most important citizens held a meeting in the Y. M. C. A rooms. An executive committee with Dr. E. E. Frenchh as chairman was appointed. The members of the executive committee are Stanley F. Caldwell, Samuel Nixon, Hiram L. Hetherington, Thomas H. Tudor and Harry McClain.

Wednesday evening the executive committee will meet in the same rooms to appoint committees to take charge of the various branches of the necessary preparations. Monday, July 5 will be celebrated instead of the 4th, which comes on Sunday. An endeavor will be made to secure a carnival during the week of the Fourth.

FEW CAPABLE OF SYMPATHY

Too Many Make the Mistake of Considering Pity as Answering the Same Purpose.

"I'm very, very sorry for her, but I don't understand how she can do as she is doing." That's the kind of sympathy you don't care to have directed your way isn't it? That isn't really sympathy but nothing more than pity, a half condescending look-down from above that seems to say "I am of better material," a good deal more than it says "I am sorry."

It's odd how little sympathy there is abroad in the world. We mean how little downright frank understanding that others are really suffering from things that would not make us suffer; that others want to do things in which we see no delight, and don't want to do things that someone who keeps tab on the world's duty says they ought to do. A man told us the other day that he had so trained his boy that he would find few temptations in college. A lot that man knows about it, doesn't he? One thing is sure; he will never hear much of the temptations, for he couldn't understand. All he could say would be, "My dear boy, I don't see how you can feel for one moment like doing these things." And if he can't understand, he won't be much help to the boy.

Sometimes when you have felt weak enough to want a little sympathy, you haven't gone to the good friend who was prolific of advice, have you? Nor yet to him who looked in pity as on an abnormal being? But someone who really cared for you, put his arm around your shoulder, and—well that was about all. But it's too bad we can't remember it oftener.

SORRY TO HAVE MISSED TRIP

Traveler's Regret Is That He Passed Up Opportunity to Cross the Sinai Desert.

The difficulties of the Sinai desert seem to a correspondent to be somewhat exaggerated. Ten years ago, he writes, I visited Jerusalem, Jericho and the Dead sea on my bicycle, and on my return journey was tempted to make the trip from Jaffa to Alexandria by way of Gaza and the coast. As the result of local inquiries (and cycling is not unknown in Palestine, for I got the loan of a pump in Jerusalem) I ascertained that the journey would be only some 150 miles—"six days' camel journey"—and that water would be obtainable at two places. There is no "road," but my experience in Palestine did not make that any disadvantage, for I usually found that a camel track gave considerably better going than the sort of thing that passes as a made road in the wilderness of Judea. Six days by camel would have meant about four days on a cycle, but as that was the exact time I had in hand before my boat sailed from Alexandria, I came to the conclusion that there was not enough margin to work on. To reduce my risks I was prepared to take enough drinking water and food for the whole journey no other equipment being necessary. I have only once regretted not having made the venture, but that regret is still with me.—Manchester Guardian.

First "Saratoga Chips."

One of the best ways of cooking potatoes was accidentally discovered through the unpunctuality of a train. When the line from Paris to St. Germain was opened the first train carried an official party, for whom lunch was ordered. The meal was fixed for noon, and shortly before that hour some potatoes were put on to fry. A few minutes afterward a message came that the train would probably be delayed for an hour, so the potatoes were taken off the fire, but left in the pan. Then came a second message: "Train just arriving," and the potatoes were hurriedly put back to fry again. When the party sat down to lunch the potatoes were brought on with a steak. To the delight of the guests, each chip was then found to be blown out like a small, crisp golden balloon. The cook had unconsciously invented pommes de terre soufflees.—London Chronicle.

West Africans Use Soap Freely.

In all parts of West Africa there are evidences that for centuries before the native began to import or to buy European cotton goods from the European trader who came hither, they grew their own cotton and wove on hand looms their own cotton goods. They also manufactured soap, and have made free use of it in keeping both their clothes and bodies clean, as may be observed by those who travel through the country. Some wash their bodies, as a religious ceremony, two and three times a day. This is necessary, as the natives oil their skins as a protection against the painful effects of the sun. They also delight in their white, flowing gowns.

Vacuum Grooming.

All the houses of the park department of New York city are now carried and groomed with a vacuum outfit. It carries away all the dust and dirt and hair that formerly filled the stable at grooming time. The vacuum-grooming set consists of a high-pressure vacuum fan directly connected with a one-sixth horsepower motor. The fan revolves in an aluminum case, to which the vacuum currycomb is connected by means of a long hose. The new machine benefits the hostler, for he no longer runs the risk of infecting his lungs by breathing in the microbes of disease.

COURTESY ON TELEPHONE

No Reason Why It Should Be Forgotten Because One May Be in a Hurry.

"I thought the telephone was a most informal instrument," objected one girl to another who had spoken of telephone etiquette.

"Etiquette" said the other haughtily courtesy and naturally one can be as courteous over the 'phone as anywhere else, but how many of us are?"

It certainly is exasperating to be given a wrong number; but to speak in a sharp angry tone to the person who answers the phone under such circumstances is as unjust as it is impolite. Instead of rudely requesting him to "ring off," you should say, "I beg your pardon," as if you really meant it.

Many women have an exasperating way of asking, "Who is that?" when someone answers their call whose voice they do not recognize. Always ask for the person you want to speak to, and mention who wants her.

In talking to business people be brief as possible, for their time is valuable. Girls who have the telephone habit should be made to realize that it is most embarrassing for employees to be called to the phone during business hours unless the message is very important. And that an employer is not pleased, to say the least, when he sees his clerks wasting his time talking social matters over the telephone.

Don't impose upon your friends' good nature by telephoning from house or office without offering to pay for the call. Above all else, when you phone "cut it short." It is difficult to realize that pleasure can be had from gossiping into a hole in the wall but it is a temptation to many. Say what you have to say and get through with it. Don't keep the wire occupied with aimless chatter when, perhaps, it is urgently needed for an important message.

AS TO DIRT AND DISEASE

Words Have Been Considered Synonymous, but Science Has Proved the Contrary.

"Fathers and mothers lucky enough to have both boys and girls know how clean the girls keep themselves and how the boys disregard dirt. From earliest childhood the little girl's hands and face are washed, and she evades dress stains, combs her hair and tries to look nice. But every normal boy, up to the age of fourteen, revels in dirt and looks forward to the Saturday night bath with virtuous contempt or dread. But boys do not suffer infectious diseases, as much as girls. This was brought out in an investigation made of 8,900 children of all ages and sexes. We requested the mothers themselves to report what diseases their children had had. Girls had had more infectious than boys of the same age. This goes to support the modern view that dirt and disease have no necessary relation. It is not the dirt boys revel in that does harm. It is the germs in other people's bodies that should be dreaded. The girls encounter infection more than the boys because they are more sociable, meet other children more, and associate with them more intimately than boys do."—Doctor Hill.

Helpful Suggestion.

The costumier came forward to attend to the nervous old beau who was mopping his bald and shining poll with a big silk handkerchief.

"And what can I do for you?" he asked.

"I want a little help in the way of a suggestion," said the old fellow. "I intend going to the French students' masquerade ball tonight, and I want a distinctly original costume — something I may be sure no one else will wear. What would you suggest?"

The costumier looked him over attentively, bestowing special notice on the gleaming nob.

"Well, I'll tell you" he said then, thoughtfully, "why don't you sugar your head and go as a pill?"—Tid-Bits.

Vin Ordinaire.

Why, how do you do? Haven't seen you in a long time. How are you? That's good. Yes, I'm well. You're looking fine. No need to ask you how you are. Yes, I've been well all along. Hope you have. You certainly look it. No, I wouldn't say that unless I meant it. Yes, I feel first rate. I never felt better. I'm mighty glad to see you looking so well. You weren't feeling so good at one time, were you? No, neither was I. But I feel fine now. I certainly never saw you looking better. I'm glad you think I look well. Of course, you never know. I really am feeling first rate. Anybody could see you're well—

Have a Good Bed.

In Farm and Fireside a contributor, writing a practical article about mattresses and other provisions for beds, makes the following general comment:

"In furnishing a home the housewife should give most careful thought to the beds and their equipment. We spend at least a third of our lives in bed, and it is worth while to make that third pleasant and refreshing. The best mattresses and springs are none too good when one is storing up strength for some work. Besides, as is the case with most household purchases, the best are really the cheapest in the end."

IRON TAIL DEMANDS PAYMENT IN NICKLES HIS PICTURE ADORNS

Consequently Treasurer of 101 Ranch Wild West Shows Frequently Finds Himself Up Against it—Iron Tail "Bugs" on Movies.

When Iron Tail, the old Sioux chief whose profile decorates the new "buffalo" nickel, joined the 101 Ranch Wild West show, which exhibits in hCarleroi, Wednesday, June 16 in conjunction with Jess Willard the cowboy champion of the world, he brought a problem to the management that has created more or less trouble ever since.

One of Iron Tail's conditions in consenting to travel with the show was that a portion of his weekly stipend should be paid in the new nickles. To the treasurerer this seemed a simple matter and for a time the agreement was faithfully carried out. Then came a scarcity of the nickles; it was found impossible to secure them except in limited quantities, and the nickel payments had to be reduced. As a result the old chief became very much peeved and threatened to return to his village on the Pine Ridge reservation. It required considerable persuasion on the part of Jos. C. Miller, the rancher and White Chief of the Poncas, to induce him to remain. One of the conditions was that he should be featured in a Wild West motion picture at the close of the season.

This fact is in itself interesting, because until very recently the Indians were greatly opposed to being photographed. The Wild West show and the "movies" have broken down this prejudice and many Indians have become positive "bugs" on the subject. Chief Iron Tail has absorbed the film mania, and is anxious to become a "movie" star. In the meantime he manages to keep a few of the "buffalo" nickles on hand, and the best evidence of his regard is the presentation of his "picture on the nickle." His admiration for Jess Willard, the new champion, who is scheduled to appear at every performance of the big show, is particularly marked, and the big Kansas cowboy carries a handful of "buffalo" five-cent pieces that the old chief has given him.

The Indians, the cowboys, the cowgirls, the Mexicans, the Cossacks, and finally, Jess Willard, who actively appears in the arena as well as appearing in ring costume, combine in a program that is said to be without a dull moment from start to finish.

Wild West and Willard Day will be inaugurated at 10:30 in the morning with a typical frontier parade.
